NEWS
and
COMMENT

The Tigers were sent through a stiff scrimmage against the best men that Johnny Miller could produce yesterday. But Johnny's best was not good enough and the regulars—about three-fourths regulars and one-fourth substitutes—plunged through for repeated short gains to their heart's content. The coaches tried a bunch of new plays—what they are will be seen Turkey Day—and they worked pretty well against the youngsters.

Shannon Takes Place of McAnaw At Guard.

Shannon, the 180-pound youngster who is as wide as he is long, filled in McAnaw's place at guard. Whittenberg also got a chance, but it seems that Joe Shy is not going to be in condition of his ankle. Shy may get a chance, but it seems hardly probable that he will be able to play for more than one period with his weak underpinning.

With Shannon and Preston at guards, Lansing at center and Hamilton and Hudson at tackles, the Tiger line-up was fairly strong in the central part. Bass and Slusher failed in the end positions. Rutledge and Stankowski took turns at quarter. Rider played fullback with McMillan and Viner at halves.

After a few minutes of rough stuff Charley Haines went in at half. It was practically Haines' first appearance in scrimmage since the Washington game. Haines has been laid up with a "charley horse" but seems able to get around now. Schulte kept him in for a long time yesterday, giving the booter the hardest workout he has had this year. Haines, Viner, McMillan and Rider were unable to make any long gains against the freshmen, but they did go through for three or four yards on nearly every play. The freshmen played good ball all the way, especially a few of the linemen.

Linton Breaks Up
Varsity Plays.

Linton, a 170-pound tackle, broke up quite a few of the Varsity's would-be gains. Linton is a rangy youngster on somewhat the same build as Joe Shy, only very much smaller. To counter-act the good work of Linton, Captain Harry Lansing was opening holes big enough to drive the proverbial truck through. Shannon showed fairly well at guard and prevented anyone from going through him.

The Bengal's menu is pretty sure to be a light one from now on. The double ration of work will be more than cut in half and all the bruises will be given a chance to heal. A good signal practice today, punting and forward passing ended the practice work of the 1916 season and only the Thursday battle remains between the Tigers and the free and unhindered life.

Lansing At Center
Against Kansas.

Just who will start the Kansas game is more than Schulte can say. One thing seems to be certain: Lansing will hold down the passing job and Hamilton will be stationed at tackle. Groves, Preston, Wilder and Giltner are pretty sure to form the rest of the line—leaving one guard position open. If McAnaw can get back in time to play—if not, it will probably be Shannon or Whittenberg. Stankowski quarter, Rider fullback, is as far as one can safely predict the opening array. The halfbacks will be chosen from McMillan, Collins, Pittman and Viner. All four probably will face the ruffled feathers of the Jayhawkers before the game is over.

Marshall May Get A Chance To Play.

There is one more man who may get his one chance of the season next Thursday. He is John Marshall, halfback and battering ram. Marshall was injured before the Central game. His name has never appeared in the Tiger line-up. Just before the Drake game Marshall donned a uniform and announced that he was ready to displace one of the halfback positions with the rest of the claimants. Schulte kept the line-hitter out of scrimmage until the All-American game. Marshall played the first half and every time he hit the line one could see it waver and then give way before the effort of the Southeast Missouri boy. Shortly before the half ended he plunged through tackle for four yards and a touchdown. If the Tigers ever get on the Kansas' five-yard line and the men who took the ball that far fall to advance it any farther, Marshall may be sent in. But it is hardly probable that he will be used for more than a few minutes.

"Paddy" Driscoll, captain of the Northwestern team this season, has been re-elected captain for next year. Driscoll was elected captain after only one year of playing—very unusual in the Big Nine, or anywhere else for that matter. Driscoll is the man who, almost unaided, beat Missouri last year and this year made his team a contender in the finals for the Big Nine championship.

even dream of animals. Tigers simply don't exist for my dream-vision. But, thank goodness, the Tigers were ahead when—I started to say when the whistle blew. I wish heartily to endorse the recent editorial about alarm clocks that appeared in the Missouriian. They are all right in their place, but their place isn't in the room of a Tiger fan dreaming sweet dreams of a victory over the Jayhawkers.—It was all very unsatisfactory."

BUNTING AND RALLIES THERE

Lawrence Makes Final Preparations For The Big Game.

Lawrence, Kan., is a town up town. Enthusiasm, bunting and rallies prevail as final preparations for the Thanksgiving game are being completed.

The last scrimmage with the freshmen was given the K. U. Varsity yesterday afternoon, the tyros using Missouri formations. Coach Olcott says the game Thursday is just a toss-up and will be won by the team which gets the breaks.

All classes in the University will be dismissed at eleven o'clock tomorrow morning for the annual Missouri rally and the burning of the Tigers on Mount Oread.

Down town the business houses are already decorated and work has been started hanging flags and banners on the poles of the Lawrence Street Railway.

Mrs. W. H. Naylor Is Ill.

Mrs. B. W. Jacobs of 305 Christian College Avenue, yesterday morning was called to the home of her mother, Mrs. W. H. Naylor, a mile east of Columbia on the Fulton Gravel road. Mrs. Naylor is suffering from a serious attack of heart disease and the attending physicians report her condition as critical.

Will Decorate "Tiger Special."

The freshmen of the University will have charge of the decoration of the "Tiger Special," which will leave Columbia at 12:45 o'clock Wednesday. Each freshman is expected to put in as much time as possible tomorrow morning at the work.

TIMEKEEPER ENDS DREAM
WITH TIGERS AHEAD 14-7

The annual dreamer has had his dream. Can't you remember how, every year since the Missouri-Kansas game has become a classic, the psychic wonders of the age have foretold the result several weeks before the contest; how in every instance their prophecies came true, or nearly came true? The year 1916 is not without its dreamers of gridiron dreams.

Alfonso Johnson, a former student in the School of Journalism, manager of the Co-Op, tells of his trip to Kansas via the Slumberland Special.

Dreamer Sees Myriads of Tigers.

"The day was perfect," he explained. "I had a seat on the fifty-yard line. I was rooting for all I was worth, and the Tigers were fighting as Tigers never fought before. I saw hundreds of Gold and Black players. They were all over the place.

"Kansas kicked to Missouri, and I nearly fell from my seat. I slapped my pillow and kicked the covers over the foot of the bed when the Tigers advanced the ball to the middle of the field. But Kansas held. They were given the ball, and they tore through Missouri like—well, there isn't a simile that will express it. They scored and Lindsey kicked goal. I never did see the ball, but someone whispered into my ear that he had scored. In the second quarter Missouri came back, and the score stood 7 to 7 at the end of the half. During the third quarter Missouri scored again. And the Tiger rooters were happy. The quarter ended 14 to 7, with Kansas backers looking pale.

Timekeeper Becomes Umpire.

"I lay on my pillow with a smile, almost a grin, on my face. The teams faced about, and the third quarter began. Ah, but in the distance I heard a sound—as of many bells ringing. I heard it come closer and closer, until I awoke with a start. I was wrestling with the alarm clock. The game was over as far as I was concerned; for try as I would I couldn't go back to sleep and dream out that last quarter.

"Every night since I have gone to sleep thinking of that third quarter, trying to make myself dream about it, but invariably I dream of fishes, chariot races and county fairs. I can't
